Read the following passage and answer questions 1 through 5.

Tuttle the Turtle

Tuttle was snug inside his leathery egg. It was completely dark but he didn't care because he was warm and safe in a nest in the sand. His mother had left Tuttle and his brothers and sisters hidden inside the nest. When she knew her eggs were safe, she returned to her place in the ocean. Tuttle and his family were sea turtles.

One day something inside Tuttle told him he was getting too big for his egg. It was time for Tuttle to hatch. It was time for all the baby turtles in the nest to hatch. It is safer to hatch and leave the nest at night. Many predators find baby turtles to be a tasty meal. Birds and mammals will eat baby turtles.

Meanwhile Tuttle worked hard to break open his egg shell. Birds have a brittle egg shell but turtles have a soft shell that is hard to open. It took some time for Tuttle to open his egg using his egg tooth but he worked hard and finally left his shell behind.

But remember, Tuttle's mother had left her eggs buried about twenty inches deep in the sand. Tuttle and the other baby turtles had to dig their way out of the nest but one by one they emerged from the sand.

Tuttle didn't have time to look around at the beach. Tuttle didn't care about the sky or the stars. Instinct told him that his home was in the ocean. Tiny Tuttle wasn't afraid of the big ocean waves that landed on the beach. He ran to the ocean as fast as he could along with dozens of his brothers and sisters who had just hatched too.

Tuttle already knew how to swim and how to hold his breath under water. He knew how to breathe while he was under the water too. Tuttle used his small flippers to swim out into the vast unknown ocean. Tuttle would never come back to land again but his sisters will someday lay their eggs on a sandy beach.

One day a farmer saw the dog. "I'd like to buy that dog," he said to the elephant keeper.

The keeper sold the dog to the farmer, and the farmer took the dog away.

The elephant missed the dog very much. When it was time to eat, the elephant wouldn't eat. When it was time to sleep, the elephant wouldn't sleep.

A doctor was called. "There's nothing wrong with the elephant's body," he told the keeper. "She seems lonely, though. Has she lost a friend?"

"Yes," said the keeper. "There was a dog who used to play with her, but he's gone."

"Get the dog back," the doctor said. "Then the elephant will feel better."
